

'67 BOREAS

I AM BOREAS, THE NORTHWIND;
NEWBORN I COME FROM THE NORTHLAND,
CHILD OF ICE AND SNOW.
STRANGER I WANDER NOW,
FAR FROM MY NATIVE CLIME.
WELCOME ME TO YOUR MIDST,
BEFRIEND ME IN MY YOUTH,
NOURISH ME THAT I MAY GROW
TO MANHOOD AND BECOME ENSHRINED
A LOYAL SON OF VALLEY HIGH.

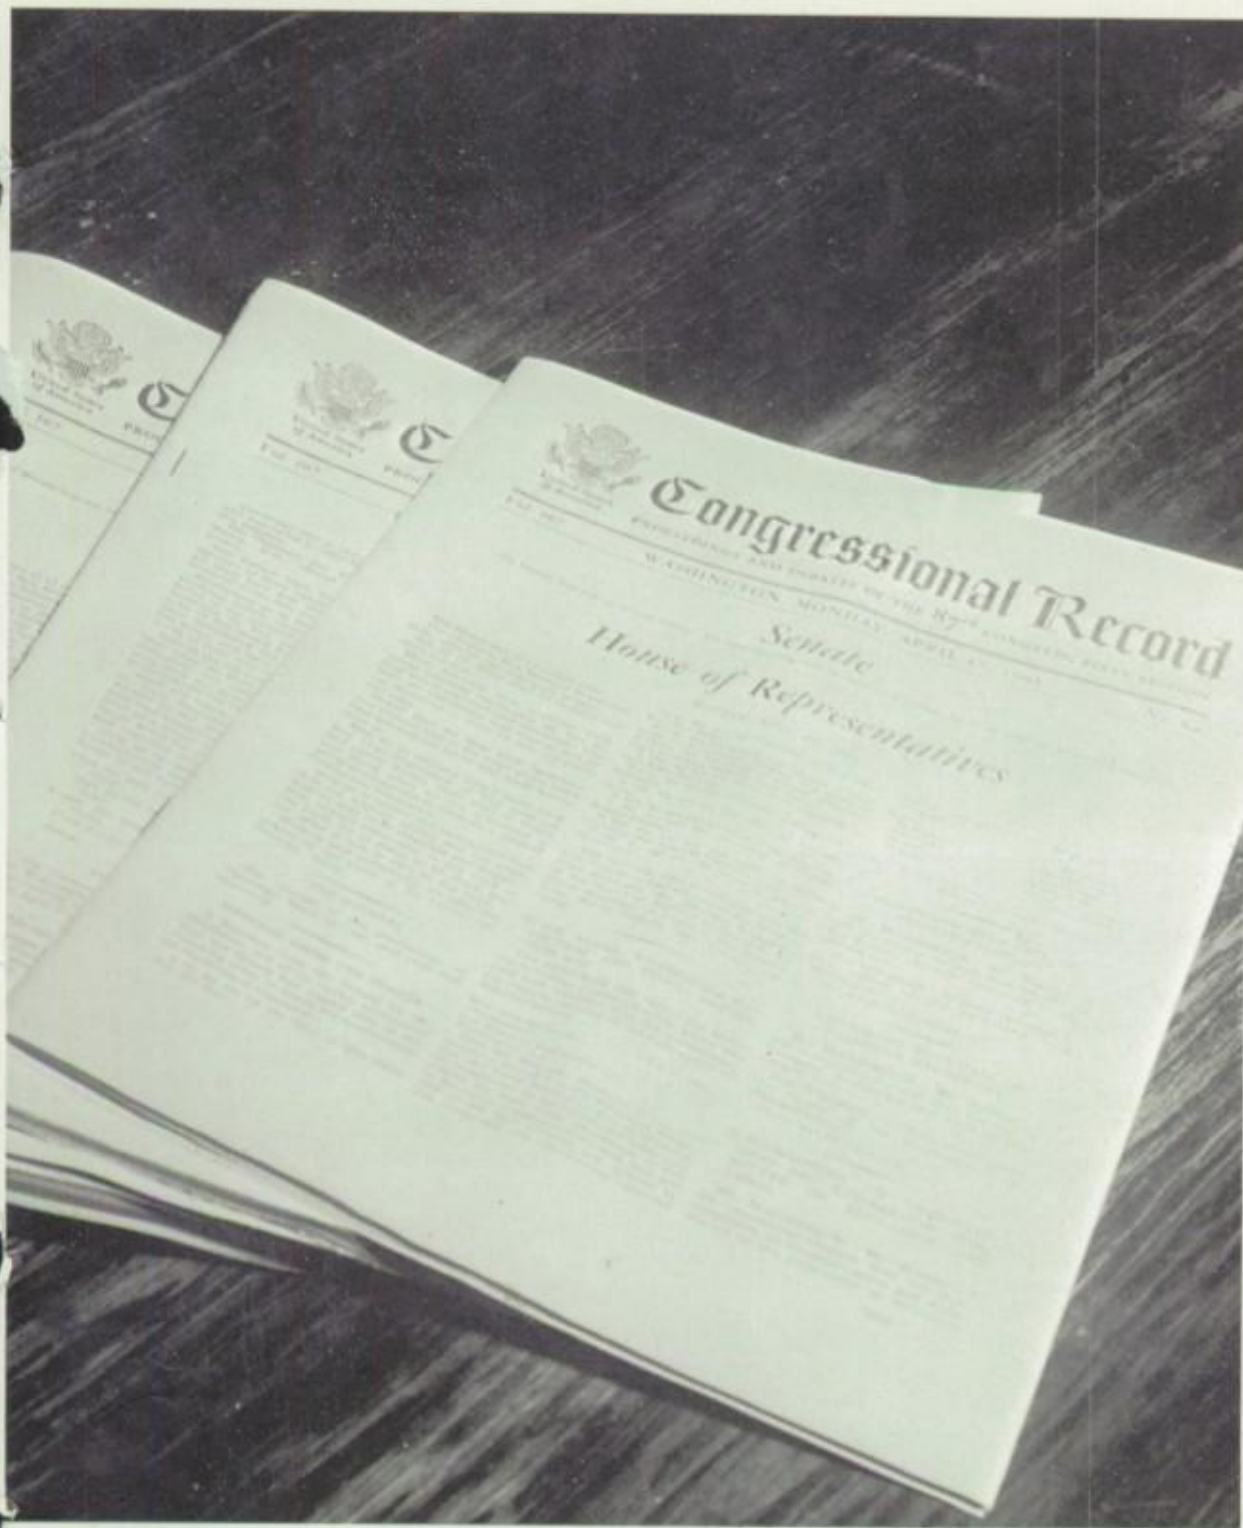

Dedication

We, the Class of 1967, wish to dedicate this, the 33rd Edition of the Boreas, to Mr. Sherman, our advisor. His patience and firmness in guiding us through our past four years have earned for him, not only our respect as a teacher, but also our admiration as a friend.

With sincere appreciation, we would like to extend our gratitude to Mrs. Knight, who, for nineteen years, has given so unselfishly of her time in directing all the musical activities in this area.

Poetry

The following poems were accepted for publication in the New England Anthology of High School Poetry.

The City

The city is noisy
With it's honking of horns
And masses of people
Moving about.
Then,
It's quiet.
Where's the noise,
The honking horns,
The bustling people?
They're gone!
Where?
To sleep--
A dream world of
Peace,
Happiness, and Quietness.

Alita McCall

Day Gone By

The morning was still
And quiet.
The new day was upon us
And then--
The silence was broken.
Birds were singing,
People were bustling,
But the day soon grew old,
And the birds stopped singing,
And the people stopped bustling,
And silence--
Was upon us once again.

Cathy Bray

Lost

I'm lost, lost amongst the evergreens.
But its nice to be lost
Because here I find a deep kind of peace.
A peace I can't find in any town
And a feeling made by no man.
I'm glad to be lost for I can stand it no longer--
Man against man, promise against threat,
Falseness, suspicion against truth and beauty.
I shall stay lost.

Julie Richard

Hope-less-ness

Hopelessness
An empty feeling
That rides on hope and
Knows that it won't come true.

Hopeless
A word everyone knows,
And yet, tries to remedy
By trying harder and almost succeeding.

Hope
Something no one can do without,
Because if there were none,
Where would all of us be?

Susan Stevens

Poetry

Winter's Coming

The colorful season of fall has passed,
The trees are bare and the leaves have blown away.
The ground is moist and brown and
Mother Nature is preparing to spread her
First coat of white paint.

She slaps it on lightly at first,
Building it up to a fine white coat
Until it finally covers everything.
Then she sits back and watches the
Marvelous wonders she has created.

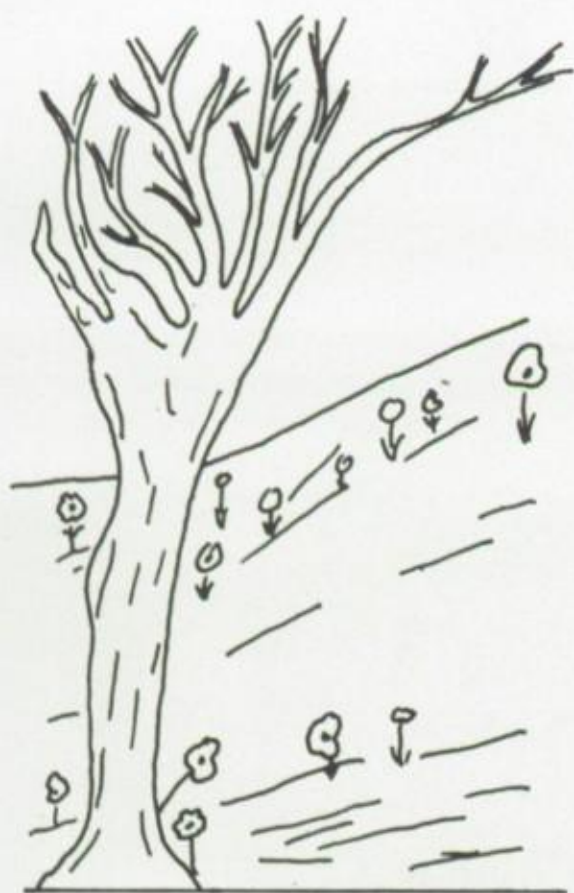

Randi Reed

Death in the Spring

Spring dawned this year in all its glory.
Young fresh flowers decked a mossy carpet.
The trees garbed themselves in velvety green.
And danced gently in the breeze--
All but one.

This tall, magnificent maple refused to live.
With all the world's problems on its mighty limbs,
It heaved a sigh and died.
Now it stands so proud and lonely,
A shell of what once was.

Jean Hunt

The Inner Man

Poetry is the Soul's creeping through our masks of unreality
Each one of us ---
May wear a covering mask
But our verse ---
Cleaves US
From that which is not US
----Like separating chaff from wheat----
The shallowness of falsehood leaves the real,
And allows the hidden to show itself.
